"EVERY TIME I GO TO A MOVIE, IT'S MAGIC, NO MATTER WHAT THE MOVIE'S ABOUT."

STEVEN SPIELBERG

To say it's been a turbulent few years for the film industry would probably be a slight understatement, but yet it persists, adapts and overcomes and that is down to each of you. Whether you're a filmmaker who's creating or film lover who turns up, you together are keeping the magic alive and are the reason the future of cinema is so bright.

Welcome to Worcester Film Festival 2025. We've seen some big changes and big growth this year. In April, we received our first national accreditation making us the only festival in the West Midlands to be BIFA Qualifying. What that means is, the short films we screen can go on to have a chance at winning a national award at the British Independent Film Awards. We're incredibly proud to have achieved this as such a young festival and it has given us a significant boost to put this area on the map for filmmaking.

What lies ahead is our most packed out event so far. We have 119 films that we've selected to screen at our ODEON venue over 4 days ranging from short films, feature films, documentaries, animation, student, Midlands made and music videos. We're also screening two previews of films yet to be released in cinemas and have two special presentations. One of which is "Alien" returning to the big screen, followed by a STEM talk by an engineer around the AI depicted in the film and comparing it to our modern day counterparts. We also have 10 filmmaker Q&As, including one with SAG nominated actor Patrick Fabian around his latest feature film that's having its UK and European premiere right here at Worcester Film Festival!

For those of you interested in learning more about the industry, we have workshops on film financing, casting, distribution and pitching. We're offering 1-2-1s with the BFI. A film social and networking evening with a film-themed open mic. An art trail around the city and a pitch event with a £1,500 prize for the winning idea.

All of this culminates in our annual Awards Ceremony, where bespoke trophies, made by local charity Mens Sheds, are handed out to our winning filmmakers.

We hope you enjoy what we've put together for 2025 and thank you for supporting us, whether you're a returning attendee or have just discovered us this year. We look forward to seeing you.

Thank you, as well, to all those who contribute to the festival - our jury members, partners, venues, collaborators, volunteers and team members who work tirelessly with us to grow this event year on year.

Happy watching!
